ABOUT 205 WEST RANDOLPH

Originally built in 1914-1928, 205 W Randolph is a 200,000 SF, 23-story Art Deco building located in the West Loop. Current ownership has invested significant capital and vision into rebranding the building by redesigning the lobby and upgrading the building and security systems. The property is steps away from both the Washington/Wells and Clark/Lake stations, making your commute even easier.

205 W Randolph's exceptional location in the West Loop allows for unmatched convenience and access to transportation. It is within walking distance from the Ogilvie Transportation Center and Union Station, and within two blocks of six CTA "L" lines. This central location makes the property ideal for both suburban and urban commuters. For driving commuters, there are multiple public parking garages within a two-block radius.
